ABOUT SILAAI

Our goal

Silaai will be an online C2C platform that will become a bridge between fashion's ethical consumption and supporting talent. Silaai will mainly aim to resolve the three highlighted issues within the fashion industry starting in India.

1

Environmental Impact: India's textile industry, while contributing ₹646.96 billion ($222.08 billion) to the economy in 2024, generates substantial waste. Silaai India wants to tackle overproduction by utilizing surplus fabrics and promoting circular fashion.

Artisan Support: India is home to over 7 million artisans across 3,000 different crafts, yet many struggle with income instability and lack direct market access. Silaai aims to be a platform where skilled artisans can collaborate with designers and reach customers directly.

Employment Gap: While India produces numerous fashion and design graduates annually, many face challenges finding sustainable employment. Silaai India provides a platform for these graduates to showcase their services, build portfolios, and establish their businesses.

To be a one-stop-shop and work with Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs), designers and artists to help reduce fashion waste and increase the longevity of clothes.

MISSION

To be the leading C2C e-platform that promotes sustainability and slow-fashion while keeping the art of handicraft alive by employing artisans in India.

VISION

To operate within strict legal and ethical guidelines and pursue fashion sustainability. The business also aims to nurture and support its customers and users by constantly improving its services.

VALUES

SILAAI'S CUSTOMERS

Silaai services will initially launch in major metropolitan cities: Mumbai, Delhi, Bangalore, Chennai, Hyderabad, Pune, Kolkata, Ahmedabad, Jaipur and Kochi, with plans to expand to Tier-2 cities.

Our platform welcomes everyone who believes in sustainable and ethical fashion, from urban millennials to traditional craft enthusiasts.

Silaai aims to create its online presence within the traditional fashion industry for the tech-savvy customers and ones without access to digital means. An online presence will increase the convenience of ordering Silaai's services with internet accessibility, including service-providers from different parts of the world.

SILAAI'S SERVICES

SERVICE 1

FASHION REVIVAL & CUSTOMISATION

Aiming towards the service providers and end-consumers, this service will focus on the 3R's:

Revive: customers get their existing clothes altered, increasing the longevity of that garment.

Revise (adding on): end-customers bring their existing clothes and get them modified through techniques like adding embellishments, embroidery, etc.

Remake: The end-customers can get new garments made using surplus fabrics.

SERVICE 2

ARTISAN & GRADUATE EMPOWERMENT

Service 2 aims to extend its C2C platform to include fashion and design portfolio management services for Fashion students.

Additionally, Skill development and business mentorship wil be available for traditional artisans.

SERVICE 3

SUSTAINABLE TEXTILE MARKETPLACE

In furtherance of Silaai's goal to become a 'one-stop-shop', Service 3 aims to create a space to facilitate trading textiles via Silaai's textile marketplace.

The envisioned model will cater to the C2C and B2C customers with a focus on surplus fabrics and sustainable materials.

MARKET SIZE

India's textile and apparel market is valued at ₹18,15,000 crores ($222.08 billion) in 2024, projected to reach ₹52,85,000 crores ($646.96 billion) by 2033 at a CAGR of 11.98%.

The online fashion retail market in India is expected to grow by $36,010 million from 2025-2029 at a CAGR of 22.2%. Additionally the global sustainable fashion market, valued at $9.22 billion in 2024, is projected to reach $20.84 billion by 2033.

Moreover, India's handicraft sector, employing 7 million artisans, is also gaining momentum with government support and growing global demand for authentic, handmade products.

Through this platform, we aim to connect: End-consumers and Service-Providers.

1. Service providers includes professions such as but not limited to apparel wear designers, textile designers accessory designers, jewellers, manufacturers, ateliers, freelancers, and artists.

2. End-consumers are individuals that will hire these service-providers for projects. This includes public, companies that would like to hire designers and or other profession's individuals.
